46th Annual “Morris the Horse” Trials

AT FENCE IN TRYON, NORTH CAROLINA

Morris the Horse

TOWN OF TRYON ICON

Morris the Horse, a well-loved landmark standing on the corner of Trade and Pacolet Streets, has proudly represented Tryon since 1928. He is both a symbol of the community's love of horses and a replica of an era gone by when wooden toy horses just like him were made in Tryon and shipped all over the country.

The first Tryon Horse was built of wood by Meredith Lankford and Odell Peeler, two employees of Tryon Toy Makers, to advertise the first horse show held at Harmon Field in 1928 and sponsored by Tryon Riding and Hunt Club. Pulled by a car through town, the horse would lift its tail and head when the reins were pulled. The current Morris, made of fiberglass, is the 4th generation of Tryon Horses. He does not travel around town as his ancestors did, but he has appeared on Christmas ornaments, street signs, T-shirts and more.

In 2019, local artisans Fred Herres and Barney Eiserloh took on a big undertaking when the Tryon Downtown Development Association approached them to build a "mobile" Morris that can be used in parades and other activities celebrating the Tryon Horse. The Tryon Riding & Hunt Club stepped in to cover all expenses, and Henson's Building Material donated many materials and provided the remainder at a discount to build a 7 ft tall version of the Tryon icon.

This latest version of the traditional Tryon icon is present this weekend at TRHC's 46th Annual Horse Trials and will greet you when you enter the FENCE complex. He will keep watch over the proceedings this weekend from his location near the Show Office.
